

Monica's November Update:

Monica let her lead dog Moto answer our latest set of questions!

3A: Have you seen any moose yet?

Moto: Mmmmmooossssseeeeeee.....that would be tasty. I love chasing moose....We saw a few earlier back in the Real September. Then we have been running on the beach mostly, no moose there. Sometimes there are seagulls though! Those are fun to chase!

3A: Has there been much snow yet?

Well. It teased us, two times. Such a mean tease that snow has been.

3A: Do you think you have enough snow for the sleds yet?

Nope. We anxiously await. It is supposed to snow 100% tomorrow! This is very exciting news, I put my can for grub in my house so my musher people can find it if we get a few feet. That would be so nice then we could pull the sled dashing through the snow! The way it is supposed to be! Enough of the mud, enough of the frozen rock, hard ground that hurts our paws....we want white!

3A: Have you made up your mind yet about any dogs who will run the Iditarod?

Well, me of course. Because I am Moto and the most important. I think my musher girl will have a tough choice for that because so far all 36 of us have been pulling our hardest and hope to make the team!

[Editor's Note: There is much more to the interview to come later – but for right now the rest is stamped TOP SECRET!]
