

A Turkey on the Trail

Woof! Woof! This year I'm not going to be eaten at Thanksgiving dinner! Have you ever seen a turkey disguised as a husky? Now you will! This is the perfect plan because no one will suspect that a world famous sled dog is actually a prime piece of poultry! Race a thousand miles? Ha! I can run that in my sleep! So, I will rent a husky dog costume online, and slip it on the week before Thanksgiving. Then, I will hitch a ride up north to Alaska, and find a musher's dog kennel. There, I will creep into the dog yard while the musher is asleep one night. There are so many dogs in a kennel, I am sure I won't be noticed. If I am, who could turn away a cute husky? From then on, I will be part of a dog team training for the Iditarod! I will be harnessed each morning with the other huskies, and train in the cold, white snow for The Last Great Race on Earth®. I hope I didn't bite off more than I can chew!
