

Welcome to The Brotherhood Kennel™! The Brotherhood Kennel™ is a kennel where every one of the dogs trust each other, and they trust me. They count on me to lead them to the finish line, and I count on them to remember the trail and run like never before! And we all trust my lead dog, Luna. She is my eyes, ears, and smell when something happens. And we do it to raise money to donate to cancer research. I live in Willow, Alaska to train for the Last Great Race On Earth®. We live in the wild and it's a beautiful place and it's nice to go out in the morning, because birds are singing, and flowers are blooming. It's a wonderful place. On the Iditarod trail you get to see so many different landscapes and places. With your support we can become something great. But you are probably wondering about my logo. It means that no matter what we trust each other even on the highest mountain because we are The Brotherhood Kennel™.
